Dorica Cabinet

The classic fluting of a Doric column becomes the starting point for Dorica, a collection of storage furniture which reinterprets the elegance of classical Greek architecture by transforming it in a contemporary key. The silhouette of the cabinet is marked by concave slats which, meeting at sharp edges, give vertical architectural rhythm to the surface. Enhanced by integrated interior lighting and a spacious drawer, the cabinet is designed to store objects with both functionality and understated elegance.

Dorica Sideboard

The classic fluting of a Doric column becomes the starting point for Dorica, a collection of storage furniture which reinterprets the elegance of classical Greek architecture by transforming it in a contemporary key. The concave slats give vertical architectural rhythm to the surface, while the new DeFauvé stainless steel finish amplifies this visual interplay, highlighting the three-dimensionality of the form and creating reflections which transform each piece into a sculptural presence. The sideboard is completed with spacious internal shelves, designed to accommodate objects of various kinds with both practicality and refined elegance.
